Counter Intelligence Firms To Influence Elections (Canada And Abroad), Registered As Charities

This is a follow-up to an earlier article. Various groups, which claim to be fighting "misinformation" are actually run by political operatives in Canada. Some of the grants that Canadian taxpayers shell out are also listed. The previous piece will provide a lot of background.

Now the question remains: what do their finances look like? Since many of these groups are in fact registered charities, this information is freely available.

The description as "counter intelligence" is fitting here. While claiming to promote the idea of fairness and openness in the electoral process, these companies won't ever give the full picture. They'll never address topics like central banking, the climate change hoax, the "pandemic" psy-op, or many hard questions. In fact, some of these groups run "disinformation" campaigns to prevent the truth about CV from getting out.

The Cambridge Dictionary defines counter intelligence as: "secret action taken by a country to prevent another country from discovering its military, industrial, or political secrets". However, instead of a struggle between 2 countries, it's one between government and its people.

Lenin's famous quote applies here: the best way to control the opposition is to lead it ourselves.

CIVIX is a registered charity in Canada that claims to promote democracy in locally. Apparently, it's also involved with elections in Colombia as well. Glad to know that public money is used to meddle with another country's leadership.

Institute for Canadian Citizenship was started up by Adrian Clarkson, former Governor General of Canada. While claiming to promote citizenship for new Canadians, the NGO is active in gaslighting with claims of racism, and promoting the disinformation narrative. In short, it functions like a media arm of the Federal Government, while pretending to be neutral.

Journalists for Human Rights is another such group. While it may seem harmless enough to promote human rights abroad, it's worth noting that these groups remain silent on what happens in Canada. They say nothing about the martial law and medical tyranny imposed on the people who help fund them.

JHR also helps fund "Disinfo Watch", a supposedly independent website devoted to debunking conspiracy theories about the "pandemic".

Simon Fraser University (BC) and Ryerson University (Ontario) are listed as being organizations to counter misinformation. Both are registered charities, according to the Canada Revenue Agency.

These are just some of the media influencers working in Canada to misinform and deceive the public. And they are partially funded with tax dollars.

Regarding ICC: The establishment’s dynamic duo, Adrian Clarkson and her husband John Ralston Saul, is not idle I see. “In short,” the ICC “…functions like a media arm of the Federal Government, while pretending to be neutral.” “A Fair Canada” was a real eye-opener. It was pure government apologetics masquerading as an ode to Canada’s First Nations. Saul’s claims in “A Fair Country” are very transparently false. Which is a shame because Saul is an interesting fellow who has written some good books (“Voltaire’s Bastards” and “The Unconscious Civilization” for example). Then again, Look at who his mentor is: https://www.corbettreport.com/meet-maurice-strong-globalist-oiligarch-environmentalist/

See my review of John Ralston Saul's "A Fair Country" here: https://arrby.wordpress.com/2017/03/27/john-ralston-sauls-a-fair-country-telling-truths-about-canada/
